The latest print

Recurring revenue machine. Revenue is highly recurring, driven by space, power, and interconnection fees with historically very low churn. MRR per cabinet and interconnection adds compound steadily, and Q2 2026 bookings accelerated 23% YoY on AI inference demand.

Fairly valued at the reference price. Our REIT AFFO-based DCF values Equinix at $1,020.54 per share in the base case (8% revenue CAGR, 51% EBITDA margin), with a probability-blended target of $1,022.09, roughly 3% above the $991.24 reference price. That lands inside our Hold band, not the strong-buy $1,050 research estimate.

The moat

Enterprise AI is moving from training to deployment; inference favors distributed, interconnection-rich campuses. Equinix reported ~60% of its largest recent deals tied to AI workloads, with annualized gross bookings up 23% in Q2 2026.

The growth engine

Power constraints and local moratoriums make new competing hubs hard to build, giving Equinix pricing power on cross-connects and cabinet MRR. Existing campuses become more valuable as supply is capped.

The valuation uses a multi-year unlevered free cash flow DCF. The discount rate is the live CAPM rate: the 10-year Treasury yield plus beta times the market-implied equity risk premium. Terminal value is a Gordon perpetuity on terminal-year free cash flow.

Mechanics are explicit. The bridge runs revenue to EBIT to cash taxes, then adds back D&A and subtracts capex and working-capital investment to reach unlevered free cash flow. Targets are divided by diluted shares outstanding.

The franchise deep dive

Enterprise AI is moving from training to deployment; inference favors distributed, interconnection-rich campuses. Equinix reported ~60% of its largest recent deals tied to AI workloads, with annualized gross bookings up 23% in Q2 2026.

Power constraints and local moratoriums make new competing hubs hard to build, giving Equinix pricing power on cross-connects and cabinet MRR. Existing campuses become more valuable as supply is capped.

Interconnection revenue is mission-critical and sticky; migrating physical routing gear is costly, producing very low churn and high revenue visibility.

The 10% dividend raise to $5.16 quarterly underscores management's confidence in AFFO durability; the REIT structure mandates distribution of taxable income, aligning payouts with cash generation.

Valuation cross-check

REIT AFFO-based DCF: Bear $825.69 (5% CAGR, 48% margin), Base $1,020.54 (8% CAGR, 51% margin), Bull $1,221.59 (11% CAGR, 53% margin). Live cost of equity ~8.7% decaying to ~8.3% with beta 0.97 to 0.85. Blended $1,022.09 vs $991.24 spot = +3% upside, inside the Hold band.

Digital Realty (DLR) trades at higher AFFO multiples on similar leverage; Iron Mountain at a premium P/E. Equinix's interconnection density and ~51% margins justify a premium to wholesale peers, already reflected in its market cap ranking as the largest data center REIT.

Equinix has compounded revenue ~9% annually (FY22-FY25) with expanding margins. The blended target sits below the 52-week high of $1,128.68 and above the low of $720.62; the current price reflects roughly 7.3% implied 5-year growth per our reverse DCF, close to the base case.

What to monitor

28 Oct 2026. Q3 2026 results after the close; consensus ~$2.57B revenue. Management commentary on AI inference pipeline and bookings momentum is the key read.

Ongoing. AI inference deal flow: nearly 60% of the largest recent deals were AI-tied; continued enterprise AI agent adoption drives distributed low-latency demand.

Quarterly. Dividend trajectory: 10% raise to $5.16 quarterly in 2026; sustained AFFO growth supports further increases.

The bear case

Rate sensitivity

As a leveraged REIT, Equinix's valuation is sensitive to the 10Y Treasury (currently ~5.1%). Sustained higher rates raise the cost of equity and the cost of funding expansion capex.

Power and permitting constraints

The same moratoriums that protect the moat can also limit Equinix's own expansion where grid capacity is constrained, capping growth in the hottest markets.

Leverage

Net debt of ~$21B is ~4.3x FY26E adjusted EBITDA. Refinancing risk is muted by long-dated fixed-rate debt, but the leverage limits flexibility if growth disappoints.

The strengths

Operating Quality

Recurring interconnection revenue with ~51% adjusted EBITDA margin guidance, very low churn from high switching costs, and a network-effects moat deepened by data center moratoriums creating a scarcity premium.

Recent Trend

Q2 2026 revenue $2.63B (+16% YoY), AFFO per share $11.78 (+19%), annualized gross bookings $423M (+23%), full-year guidance raised twice, and a 10% dividend increase to $5.16 quarterly.

Forward Growth

AI inference workloads favor distributed, interconnection-rich footprints over AI factories; management notes ~60% of largest recent deals are AI-tied. Base-case 8% revenue CAGR with pricing power on cross-connects.

Valuation

DCF base target $1,020.54 and blended $1,022.09 imply +3% upside at the $991.24 reference price, inside the plus/minus 10% Hold band. Fairly valued on an AFFO basis with terminal value carrying most of the equity value.
