Investment Thesis

Scarcity Premium Is Real. Cash renewal spreads hit a record 25.4% in Q2 and the backlog grew 75% year-to-date to $1.9B. Constrained new supply lets DLR reprice existing powered capacity at materially higher rents [Company 2Q26]. Visible Double-Digit Growth. Core FFO per share guided to $8.15-8.20, a second straight year of double-digit growth, with the backlog at ~30% of in-place rent supporting management's confidence into 2027 [Company 2Q26]. Visible Double-Digit Growth. Core FFO per share guided to $8.15-8.20, a second straight year of double-digit growth, with the backlog at ~30% of in-place rent supporting management's confidence into 2027.

Fair Price, Not a Bargain. Our DCF base case of $175.92 sits about 3% below the $180.70 spot price, leaving no margin of safety. The 22x core FFO multiple already prices in the growth story.

The moat

Scarcity premium: municipal moratoriums on new data center development constrain supply while AI demand grows. DLR's existing powered shells reprice higher, with cash renewal spreads hitting a record 25.4% in Q2 2026.

The growth engine

BLENDED TARGET

The valuation uses a multi-year discounted cash flow framework across three scenarios. Discount rates are market-implied and updated from live market inputs. The scenario matrix above states what each scenario assumes in growth and margin terms and what it produces: horizon revenue, enterprise value, equity value and the per-share target.

We judge a scenario by whether its growth and margin posture is supported by the filed record and the company's own guidance, and we disclose below how much of each scenario's value sits in the terminal year, because that share is where the valuation risk concentrates.

Terminal value share

We disclose how much of each scenario value sits in the terminal year. Terminal value is 78.4% of Base equity value (Bear 77.3%, Bull 79.3%). A high terminal share means the target rests primarily on the terminal-year economics in the scenario matrix rather than on the explicit forecast years, and we weigh it accordingly in the investment view.

Fair value across scenarios

Model fair value by year under each scenario, on the same paths the ticker page chart draws.

This material is for informational and discussion purposes only and is not investment advice or a recommendation to buy or sell any security. Forecasts and valuation outputs are inherently uncertain.

Competitive moat and concentration risk

We rate the moat as Narrow and we view the market structure as Duopoly (public data-center REITs). We assign a premium of +8 to +12% to sector median multiples on moat strength alone.

- scale in scarce-power markets, 309 data centers in the Q1 2026 portfolio, with Northern Virginia 98.6% occupied at 100% share (DLR Q1 2026 supplement, via btw.media analysis, 2026).
- 2026 guidance cited by Zacks/Nasdaq (2026), renewal rental rates +6-8% cash / +8.5-10.5% GAAP, same-capital cash NOI +4-5%, and core FFO per share guided $7.90-$8.00. Separately, the sponsored Digital Core REIT signed 1H 2026 renewals at a +25.0% cash rental reversion (Digital Core REIT 1H 2026 results, 29 Jul 2026, related vehicle, not DLR itself; flagged).
- The weakest element is the product is increasingly wholesale hyperscale space, where the tenant (not the landlord) holds bargaining power and can self-build.

On a multiple cross-check, the justified range is 22.9-23.7× / 36.0-37.4×. The cross-check value is $99.47-$103.15 vs Base $179.41, spot $177.31, P/E artifact, see warning, on a base of Framework base from the October 27 moat report. The gap verdict is n/a, Base ≈ spot; no upward gap.

Backlog is $1.9bn annualized GAAP base rent at 100 percent share, $1.4bn at DLR share, signed but not commenced, 30 Jun 2026, with coverage of 20.3 percent of 2026 guide midpoint as annualized rent, not a contract total and visibility rated Medium, qualified. On backlog alone, the stance is Supports.

We score concentration and credit risk across seven families, where a High score is 8 points, a Medium score is 4 points, and a Low score is 1 point.

Risk family	Score
customer concentration	4 points
counterparty credit and funding dependence	1 points
single product, single program, or single platform dependency	4 points
single supplier, single fab, or single geography exposure	4 points
platform, channel, or distribution dependency	1 points

This material is for informational and discussion purposes only and is not investment advice or a recommendation to buy or sell any security. Forecasts and valuation outputs are inherently uncertain.

customer insourcing risk	8 points
regulatory single point risk	1 points

The combined discount is 20 percent, capped at 20 percent, against an uncapped total of 23 percent. Shown side by side with the moat premium or discount, the net stance is -12 to -8 pp points arithmetically. We do not net these figures into a new target, and we do not double count a family excluded under the double-count rule.

The ladder ranks risk coarsely, and because 32 of the 47 names reach the 20 percent cap, the combined discount is not a mechanical valuation haircut until the ladder is recalibrated.

On the gap to spot, the concentration assessment reads as follows. Arithmetic overshoot only; no causal claim

Both the moat premium or discount and the concentration discount are multiple and risk cross-checks dated October 27, 2026, and neither figure is in the DCF target itself. Cross-check figures were computed against the Base in the October 27 framework, so they may differ from a live Base that has since moved.

Methodology note. Our valuation framework discounts scenario cash flows at market-implied discount rates updated from live market inputs. The $176.23 headline target is the blended outcome of the Bear, Base and Bull scenarios in the matrix above.

The franchise deep dive

Scarcity premium: municipal moratoriums on new data center development constrain supply while AI demand grows. DLR's existing powered shells reprice higher, with cash renewal spreads hitting a record 25.4% in Q2 2026.

AI and hyperscale demand: $307M of Q2 bookings at 100% share ($208M at DLR share), two post-quarter hyperscale leases worth $410M annualized GAAP rent at 100% share, and 1.4 GW of development under construction.

Interconnection moat: record $108M of 0-1 MW plus interconnection bookings in Q2 ($20.5M pure interconnection). Interconnection revenue is high-margin, sticky, and hard to replicate.

Funding flexibility: $12B+ of remaining hyperscale development capacity via the JV platform and closed-end fund; net debt to adjusted EBITDA 4.7x (company-reported) with BBB/Baa2 ratings.

Revenue and margin trend

Valuation cross-check

DCF Base $175.92

~22× 2026 Core FFO guidance $8.15-8.20

Dividend yield 2.8%

DCF implies fair value modestly below the current price. The multiple is full for a REIT and the yield offers little cushion with the 10Y near 5.1%.

EQIX ~24× 2026 AFFO guidance

DLR ~22× 2026 Core FFO guidance

DLR trades at a slight discount to Equinix despite comparable AI exposure; the discount reflects heavier development capex intensity and recent ATM dilution.

DLR has historically traded ~18-22x FFO

Now at the high end of its historical range

The premium reflects AI-driven demand, but it leaves no room for execution slips on the development pipeline.

What to monitor

Oct 29, 2026. Q3 2026 earnings. Consensus ~$1.76B revenue and ~$1.99 FFO/share; backlog conversion and renewal spreads in focus.

Ongoing. $1.4B signed-not-commenced backlog at DLR share (~30% of in-place data center rent) plus 1.4 GW under construction converting to revenue through 2027.

2027. Management sees confidence to extend double-digit core FFO per share growth runway into 2027 and beyond on backlog visibility.

Agency risk score 30 of 100: high agency risk, the value-trap profile

The score follows the website's Executive Alignment & Agency Risk model: insider ownership up to 40 points, open-market Form 4 flow over the trailing six months up to 30, and pay-for-performance up to 30. Insiders hold 0.01% of shares outstanding. Form 4 filings over the trailing six months show $0 of open-market purchases against $38.8K of sales, a net flow of -$38.8K. One-year total shareholder return is +7.3% against CEO total pay of $6.90M (Mr. Andrew P. Power), which the model scores as STANDARD CORPORATE.

Methodology. This module reuses the website's Executive Alignment & Agency Risk model unchanged. Scores of 75 and above band as founder-mode, high conviction; 45 to 74 as balanced, typical corporate; below 45 as high agency risk. Inputs are the same feeds behind the site model (Yahoo Finance insider holdings, Form 4 transactions and executive compensation) plus the SEC DEF 14A CD&A audit from the weekly proxy pipeline. The bear case

Funding and dilution

2026 development capex guidance of $4.25-4.75B (net of partner contributions) is funded partly by equity: 13.5M ATM shares ($2.5B) sold in H1 2026. Continued dilution would drag per-share growth.

Development execution and power

1.4 GW under construction must be delivered on time with secured power. Municipal pushback on grid strain and water usage, the same dynamic driving the scarcity premium, can also delay DLR's own pipeline.

Rate sensitivity

At ~22× 2026 core FFO with the 10Y near 5.1%, the REIT multiple is rate-sensitive. A higher-for-longer rate regime would compress the valuation even if operations deliver.

The strengths

Operating Quality

Largest wholesale data center REIT with ~55% adjusted EBITDA margins and an investment-grade balance sheet (4.7x leverage, BBB/Baa2). Record $1.9B backlog and 1.4 GW under construction show the platform compounding. Dividend $4.88/share covered 1.7x by core FFO.

Recent Trend

Q2 2026 beat across revenue, EBITDA, and core FFO with guidance raised twice this year. Core FFO per share ex promote grew 14% YoY, cash renewal spreads hit a record 25.4%, and backlog grew 75% year-to-date. Two straight years of double-digit core FFO growth.

Forward Growth

Base case 7% revenue CAGR is credible: backlog at ~30% of in-place rent, 1.4 GW pipeline, and management's stated confidence in extending double-digit FFO growth into 2027. Offset: growth is funded by $4.25-4.75B of 2026 development capex and 13.5M of ATM shares ($2.5B) sold in H1 2026.

Valuation

DCF base $175.92 vs $180.70 spot implies fair value modestly below spot, with no margin of safety at the current price. At ~22× 2026 core FFO guidance the multiple is full for a REIT, and the 2.8% dividend yield offers little cushion if the 10Y stays near 5.1%.

Cascadia scorecard

Composite score 69: Attractive. Confidence High, as of 2026-10-18.

Investment view

The Oct 29 Q3 print is the swing factor: another beat-and-raise with backlog growth would support the Bull case toward $212, while a funding-heavy print with more ATM dilution or power delays on the pipeline would push toward the $141 Bear case. Sustained renewal spreads above 10% would lift Forward Growth and Valuation.

Investment view: Buy. The $176.23 blended target implies -2%, balancing the $141.48 / $175.92 / $211.61 Bear / Base / Bull outcomes.
